WELCOME

Welcome to our last edition of 2023, what a year it has been, so many wonderful events.

Well, 2023 is not quite done yet.

Before we get started on Christmas festivities - Nov 4th is the Ockley Society's Bonfire & Firework evening behind the green in Ockley, A Night At The Musicals Nov 18th (P8) and Nov 12th is remembrance Sunday (P9).

There is a complete list of Christmas service times on pages 26 & 50, Ockley Society's Carols on the Green Dec 9th (P40), Walliswood carols Dec 2nd (P12) Capel has a fair Nov 18th (P52) and QRMW has a Children's Treasure Hunt Dec 3rd (P11).

All that remains now is to thank the team that bring you Woof - Iain, Susie, Gordon, Jane & Leslie - and to all our advertisers. Without your support there would be no village magazine.

Wishing you all a wonderful Christmas and a happy and prosperous new year.

Alan Hardy

The Ockley Village Facebook page is here to encourage local businesses, charities, societies and clubs to share their news with the villagers of Ockley as well as keeping the community connected. We look forward to hearing from you.

WOOF NEEDS YOU!

Woof is still in need of someone to join our band of volunteers.

Currently the team consists of Gordon who looks after the finances, Susie who liaises with the advertisers and takes care of revenue, Jane who handles all things distribution, Leslie who makes sure what we produce is readable and Iain who is our designer and layout wizard.

We are in need of a publisher: This person will be responsible for the overall running of Woof, working with the team to get each issue to print on time. The role involves monitoring the advertising e-mail, responding and liaising with the team to help new advertisers get onboard, sourcing and routing of articles and information from proof to print.

This role doesn't require huge amounts of time, but it does need commitment as each issue is timed and these processes must happen by certain dates.

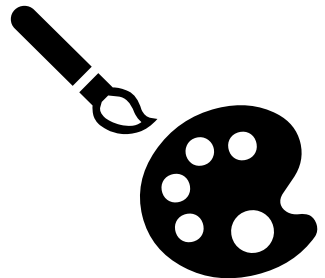

There will be plenty of training and help for the new team member. If this is something you would like to help with, please contact Alan

- amh@amhi.co.uk

Woof cannot continue without the help of our wonderful team of volunteers.

REMEMBRANCE SUNDAY 12TH NOVEMBER

Michael and I will be opening the Ockley Village Hall from 11:30am - 1pm for tea coffee and biscuits. It is a fantastic chance for you to have a look at the village hall which was built in memory of John Lee-Steere and the village fallen in the First World War.

All the photos and the large picture are now back in place.

There is some beautiful brickwork and a piece of stone from Ypres built into the original outside wall.

Does anyone know what happened to the large brass doorknob from the front door of the hall?

See you on the 12th.

ABINGER PARISH COUNCIL

Report on Forest Green Playground Proposal

The Parish Council has put together a working group made up of four parish councillors and five residents to evaluate the request and petition for a playground at Forest Green.

There was unanimous agreement that any playground proposal must ensure the special nature of the village green is not compromised.

Various sites are being considered by the group and when suitable options are agreed will form part of a public consultation.

Funding for the playground would be raised through grant or donation and would not come from the Parish Council.

Maintenance of any playground would form part of the Parish Council's maintenance scheme for the three other playgrounds in the Parish and not be undertaken by volunteers.

Examples of natural wood style playgrounds suitable for children from pre-school to around 11 years are being evaluated by the working group.

Any proposals put forward by the working group will be subject to Parish Council approval following a public consultation.

THE GARDEN IN NOVEMBER AND DECEMBER

By the time you read this - despite it having been a strange year weatherwise - we should be experiencing colder, windier and wetter days. We will be looking back fondly at the sunshine-filled 'Indian Summer' days we had from mid-September into October when, with increased moisture from a bit of rain and misty, dew-filled mornings, we saw a renewed burst of blooms in our gardens - roses, dahlias, gaura, cosmos, heleniums, asters, cyclamen, sedum and Japanese anemones to name but a few.

And whilst there may still be a few hardy individual plants bracing themselves against the colder weather, by November, it's generally time to 'put your garden to bed' ready to withstand harsher winter weather. This involves putting all tender plants under shelter in a greenhouse or cold frame. If you leave your dahlias in the ground, do make sure they have a good heap of mulch on top of them. Just be aware, however, that if you have very heavy clay soil, and it gets as cold as it did last year over several days (down to -8), the dahlia tubers can rot. So if in doubt, dig them up, pop them in pots or trays covered in compost and put them somewhere dry and not too cold.

All your beds and borders will greatly benefit from having a warm blanket of composted manure spread over them, nurturing and protecting them over the bitter winter months. It's best to do this once you've divided and transplanted any perennials and also planted all those lovely Spring-flowering bulbs! Although you can buy bulbs from early September, you can plant our tulips and daffodils and crocus by the end of November (and they're often cheaper to buy towards the end of the planting season). If like many of us locals, you have heavy clay soil, it's a good idea to add a sprinkling of grit when planting bulbs so they don't become waterlogged and rot.

Not only is it a good idea to regularly remove leaves that are covering lawns and clogging up ponds, the leaves you collect will make a fantastic leaf mulch that can be used to nurture beds and borders once rotted down. You can either put them in black plastic sacks with fork holes or build a very simple open 'container' using four posts and chicken wire to put all your leaves in. Mowing over the leaves first starts the breaking-down process and means you'll get great leaf mould that bit sooner.

Now is the time to prune tall roses to prevent wind rock damage to their roots, and to tie in climbers to their supports, cutting down by one third. Climbing roses can be pruned in winter but leave pruning the majority of roses until February at the earliest.

And winter is the time to prune apple and pear trees when the trees are dormant (but not cordons). Raise any pots of the ground to prevent waterlogging and cover in fleece or bubble wrap if a harsh frost is predicted.

In the vegetable garden, harvest remaining root crops such as leeks, parsnips, carrots, sprouts, and winter cabbage. If you planted seed potatoes in a sack in August, you might even have fresh potatoes for your Christmas dinner!

As food becomes more scarce for our wonderful feathered friends, keep bird feeders topped up with nuts, seeds and treats. Birds become regular visitors to bird feeders, and if they find the feeders empty, they have expended valuable energy for no reward. So providing food and fresh water is essential for the well-being of our favourite garden companions.

Late November is also a good time to forage materials to make a Christmas Wreath. Holly, laurel, bay, rosemary, pittosporum and euonymous make a good basis for a wreath and a few berries or rosehips always help it look especially seasonal. And if you're unsure how to start, do look out for the Christmas wreath making classes that will be coming to Oakwood Village Hall.

Merry Christmas to you all and here's to a happy new gardening year in 2024.

Martin Smith and Emma Treeby

ARE YOU STRUGGLING WITH THE BILLS?

Established in 1974, Abinger Consolidated Charities (ACC) is for the benefit of the residents in the Ancient Parish of Abinger which includes Abinger common, Abinger Hammer, Forest Green, Walliswood and Okewood Hill).

Today we provide Sainsburys' vouchers twice a year - in the run up to Christmas and in the summer - to households in need, making a real difference to people facing spiralling costs. We would be happy to add new referrals to that list.

We are also able to offer additional one-off assistance to anyone in difficulty due to a change of circumstances such as bereavement, long-term illness or unemployment

If you or someone you know is struggling financially, don't hesitate to ask us for help. We treat applications and referrals sensitively and in complete confidence.

We do not ask for any detailed personal financial information but will just chat things through to find the best way to help.

OAKWOOD HILL VILLAGE HALL IS RECLAD

thanks to a grant from Mole Valley District Council

The Hall was established as far back as the early 1900s and is at the heart of the rural community. It was essentially rebuilt over a decade ago, but extremes of weather had damaged the external wood cladding. Together with funds from the hall, the grant will go towards total replacement of the cladding with a more sustainable material to keep the building fit for its purpose and enjoyed by many for years to come.

The Oakwood Hill Village Hall is a great place for the community to come together, hosting events such as flower shows, fetes, and community meetings. It is also home to a variety of clubs and classes such as Pilates, band rehearsals and Young at Heart group gatherings, which run throughout the year.

The grant was awarded under the Mole Valley District Council's Capital Grants Programme 2023/2024

Following the award of the grant, Cllr. Hazel Watson said, "I am delighted that this funding from the District Council will be used to improve Oakwood Hill Village Hall, which is a vital community facility at the heart of the village."

The village hall is delighted to receive the grant and has already made several improvements already. They will now be concentrating on increasing the programme of activities in the Hall in the knowledge that it will be a safe and warmer place.

For more information on the Oakwood Hill Village Hall, please visit www.oakwoodhillvillagehall.org

EVERSHED FAMILY AT EVERSHEDES, OCKLEY

The Evershed family claimed descent from Thomas de Everesheved, who lived about 1215 to 1266. The name means 'Wild Boars Head' in the Saxon language and the Eversheds, as they became, claimed to be Saxons. Family members have created a possible family tree from documents in the British Museum, charters relating to the transfer of property, court cases and as witness of documents down to Thomas Evershed c1468-c1533.

His son John Evershed appears at the head of a family tree registered by the College of Arms who require proof of dates names and descent. The family tree is dated 24th April 1939.

The last Evershed to live there was John born 30th August 1654 died 28th July 1716 and whose gravestone is in St Margaret's Church. John had no children, was Sheriff of Surrey in 1710 and left Eversheds to his nephew. Shortly after that Eversheds was bought by my ancestors.

In the Eversheds papers, there is a description of a legal artifice to ensure inheritance after Norman law prevailed after 1066, which I found fascinating!

In Saxon times, it was possible for an individual to own property. But under the Norman system, all property belonged to the King, who then parcelled it out to his supporters. Property could be removed at a whim. The artifice used in Domesday - saying in the time of King Edward he was the overlord - was not strictly accurate as not all land belonged to the King, indeed Eversheds probably belonged to the Eversheds!

In 1408, John Evershed drew up a charter, which is in the British Museum, to give his property to a list of people not obviously associated with the Evershed family. But we know that after John's death his son and heir William came into possession of the family estate. William in his turn drew up a similar charter as did his son.

It seems that the named people actually acted as what would now be known as trustees, to pass on the estate to the heir and minimise the risk that a superior landlord could divert the property elsewhere!

The Saxon form of private ownership possibly explains the expression in the Domesday Book (see article in Nov/Dec2022 issue of WOOF) 'could go with it where he will' which appears in the section on Hartshurst. Indeed, it would also suggest that the Evershed family farm was farmed as a unit rather than part of the common field system. And maybe Ockley and Hartshurst were all farmed in separate units. The historical record is unclear. There are some references to the system of farming changing from family units to the Common Field system but others which suggest that there were differences in different parts of England.

There were other changes relating to the change from Saxon to Norman law. 'Slaves' are recorded in Domesday Book, but this form of bondage was phased out in Norman times, although the right of people to move from one area or village to another was still very restricted.

UPDATE ON QRMW

It was lovely to have the late summer weather during September and see a number of visitors to our memorial woodland enjoying a late summer picnic. September was a busy month for us. We were invited to attend as Guests of honour at the Vipers Annual Dinner by one of our Patrons Blue Cooper BEM and also to join a large group of ex-Queensmen for a memorial service at The National Arboretum with our other Patron Lt Colonel Michael Rowney MBE. Both events were very special.

Now (at time of writing) we are in October. The leaves on the trees at our woodland are turning yellow and golden brown bringing yet another beauty to our place of remembrance and tranquility. Remembrance is of course foremost on our minds with the 11th day of the 11th month drawing close. Our Remembrance service will take place at the woodland on Saturday 11th November when we will gather around the memorial at 10.40am. Please do join us for our service and a cup of tea afterwards.

We are also now looking forward to and planning our annual Christmas at the Woodland event for families. A treasure hunt for the children and a visit by Father Christmas with a sack load of presents. Do please register the children early to avoid disappointment as numbers are limited. Contact Debbiehornblow@yahoo.co.uk to register.

So lots to look forward to before Christmas. I look forward to seeing you very soon at the woodland for these events or of course anytime you may like to visit. Keep safe.

FINLEY'S TOUCH

We encourage all our readers to follow the link below to watch the interview former local resident, Ben Relf, had with Meridian TV about the charity he and his wife Nicky set up in memory of their young son who died from a rare form of leukaemia. It is a wonderful example of how some people are able to channel their suffering into helping many other families who find themselves in a similar situation.

WHICH FLOWER AM I?

I am prized for my vibrant colours that are so perfect for all the seasonal festivities of November and December.

Indeed, my fragrance is enchanting and my petals always look like they are ready to tap dance!

I am a very popular choice in perfume making. Historically, I have also been used for making vinegar, beer, wine and sauces.

Gardens and flower arrangements love my many forms

I am said to be a symbol of beauty and grace.

I was mentioned in Greek literature 2,000 years ago and my name is derived from ancient Greek and Latin words, meaning Divine and Flower.

Carl Linnaeus described me in 1753 and his description is my Latin name today.....

The U.S. President, William McKinley, wore my white flowers during and after his service in the Civil War as his lucky flower.

I am the national flower of Spain. In China, I am the most popular flower for weddings.

In Holland, my "Whites" after WW2 became their Remembrance flower. France and several other countries also appreciated my Remembrance attributes for ceremony.

As I am prized for all my vibrant colours, I am perfect for all the festivities in the months of November and December.

May I always share remembrance of all that is divine, especially on Remembrance Day and during the Christmas cheer to wish you and yours very special holidays.

TAPESTRY DAY CLUB

Do you know of anyone older living on their own or with early-stage dementia who might benefit from a regular, social and engaging day out?

Or are you caring for someone with dementia and need a break?

We are a not-for-profit enterprise offering day care with a difference in parts of Surrey and West Sussex, up to three days a week in some areas, and usually with the option of transport.

Tapestry Day Club's carefully vetted and trained hosts welcome up to a maximum of six guests into their own homes and provide a home-cooked, two-course lunch and optional activities.

For more info, please contact us on support@tapestrydayclub.co.uk or visit our website tapestrydayclub.co.uk

Elmers Mill sails found!!

By Peter James

Hi folks, how about this! Upon draining the nearby pond for bank works to commence, parts of the sails from Elmers Mill have come to see the light of day after around 78 years in the water!

These are parts of the last pair of sails, which remained until the mill collapsed on 23rd November 1944.

(Alex Cotton Collection)

The sail were mounted on a cast iron axle, called a 'windshaft'. This shaft protruded through the outside of the mill where it terminated in two box sections, perpendicular to each other. This part of the windshaft is called the 'cannister'. Through each 'box' of the cannister, were fitted the backbone of each pair of sails; these are known as the 'stocks'. Pieces of timber called 'sail clamps' were bolted to the centre portion of the stocks to add extra support where the stocks ran through the cannister. The four individual sails were bolted to each length of stock. The backbone of the actual sail assembly is called the 'whip', through which are morticed the sail bars.

This assembly can be clearly seen below, at Lowfield Heath windmill in Charlwood (left). I know when Elmers mill collapsed that the cast iron windshaft broke when it hit the ground.

(John Jackson Collection)

I hope my explanation above sets the scene for what was found.

Remarkably most of one stock has survived at just over 33 feet long; the original would have been only a few feet longer. One complete sail clamp survives, still bolted to the stock, which is quite fortuitous, as this has kept the remaining part of the cannister in place. This is a particularly exciting find, as it is a substantial piece of cast iron, and exactly matches what is missing from the broken windshaft in the photo above.

Parts of the whips are still bolted to the stocks, and the mortices for the sail bars are surviving in several places.

Sometime after March 1945, these remains were moved down to the pond, and used to strengthen the bank. Interestingly, this demonstrates just how much bank erosion has taken place over the years

The remains as found (left & below).

It was very handy that the bank work contractors had all the necessary equipment with which to lift the remains out and move them to the mill, for which I offer my thanks.

The sail remains, back from whence they came (below left)! It's interesting to see that the timber is still solid after all that immersion!

The right hand picture shows the broken cannister, which can be compared with the mating half shown in the 1951 photograph.

Given that the mill stopped work around 1912, and the sails were probably 40 years old by then, the remains are around 150 year sold. This, I believe makes them probably the oldest substantial sail remains in the UK.

If anyone has any further information about when the sails were taken to strengthen the bank, please let me know.

NEWS FROM THE BELFRY

It is now four months since the gudgeon sheared off the treble at Ockley and the bell has been standing on wooden blocks ever since. We are still waiting to hear from the bellhangers when the repair of the headstock will be completed but hope it will be this side of Christmas.

Thank you to those of you that responded to our appeal for funds, particularly Kindred Spirits, who made a donation from money raised by the Pavilion Café, which is much appreciated. If you would be interested in making a donation to help with the work to restore this historic ring, we would be very grateful for your support.

We are still ringing as best we can on the other five bells, especially on Sundays, but the practice nights have not been so regular as we are missing the lightest and therefore easiest bell to ring, there is less possibility of variation in the changes, and the sound is not the same. At least the treble is the first in the row, so its absence is not as noticeable as it might otherwise have been.

Rings of bells are tuned to sound together when they are first made and therefore differ from any other group of bells. You could not for example source an extra bell to ring in a peal just by its size. At St Margaret's, the bells are tuned to F#, which refers to the tenor, the heaviest of the six, at 13 hundredweight. The treble is the lightest bell at 5 cwt and is tuned to D#. The intervening bells increase in weight as you would expect between these two extremes and their sounds are also different, C#, B, A# and G#.

Hopefully when the treble is lifted back on its bearings, it will still sound the same. It sustained a small chip to its lip when it fell into the pit in the belfry and wedged against the steel frame. There is no way to tell until it is suspended once more and can be struck on its soundbow, the bottom edge of the bell.

We have new recruits at both Ockley and Capel who are keen to learn on our bells. Ringing is an art which has developed and passed from generation to generation in Britain for more than 300 years. It is a very satisfying pastime which blends aspects of sport, music, exercise and friendship, as well as a challenge of wits and skill.

If you would like to find out more about our bells or how to ring, please come along and see for yourself. Practice nights at St. Margaret's, Ockley, are usually on Wednesdays from 7.45 to 9.15, but please check first.

For more details call Sue on 01306 627168 or email ockleybellringers@btinternet.com

Wednesday 22nd November 2023 at 2.00 pm: Raphael's Tapestry
Cartoons at the V&A Museum with Dr James Lindow

The tapestry cartoons completed by Raphael (1483-1520) in 1516 remain one of this country's greatest artistic treasures. The commission's importance was underlined by the immense sums paid to both the artist and weavers.

No meeting in December.

Meetings are held at Cranleigh Arts Centre. Non-members are welcome to join us at a talk as a guest. No commitment, but a donation is appreciated!

Oakwood Hill Club (opposite The Punchbowl)

The club runs competitive and friendly Cricket, Stoolball, Snooker and Darts teams in local leagues. We are always looking for new players and social members.

The pavilion has been completely renovated with carpeting, kitchen, bar and a large outside seating area. It is available to rent for functions and parties for around 30 inside.

Please contact Dave Bishop on 01306 627524 for further info.

The Ockley Society

The Ockley Society is a group of enthusiastic, villagers whose aim is to develop, support and encourage a healthy village community spirit.

Please see the Ockley Society Facebook page for further details and contact information. We are always interested in hearing from anyone who has time or resources to contribute to any of events each year.

We currently host two quizzes (March & October), The Cricket Sevens (September), The Ockley Bonfire, Firework and Torch Parade (November) and Carols on the Green (December), plus one or two extra events per year.

Contact the Chairman Alan Hardy for further information at theockleysociety@outlook.com

Ockley Dramatic Society

We are a friendly group, we don't take ourselves too seriously but we do undertake our productions seriously. Now entering our 75th year, we have undergone a revival these past few years, attracting more than 20 regular acting members and 20 children dancers. We put on a large-scale pantomime each New Year and recently restarted our summer productions, which consist of two one-act plays with a supper provided.

We utilise many skills, not just on stage, carpenters, artists, technical, musicians, props, coffee makers, cake bakers, wardrobe, publicity, finance to name but a few roles. If interested, please do call our Chairman for a friendly chat. Martin Pratt, Chairman, 01306 628155

FRIENDS OF THE HURTWOOD

The trees are starting to show their autumn colours around the Surrey Hills area, including in the Hurtwood. Plus the mushrooms are up with local foragers out collecting edible versions.

A fascinating new information board is going up outside of Winterfold House, off Barhatch Lane. In January 1941 Winterfold was requisitioned as a Special Training School (STS) by Britain's wartime Special Operations Executive (SOE), a secret organisation formed in 1940 to undertake subversion and sabotage in enemy-occupied territory in Europe. (The House returned to private ownership after 1944, so it isn't open to visitors.)

The board is a 2023 initiative of SECRET WW2 - the Secret WW2 Learning Network a (UK registered educational charity, no. 1156796) - and has been generously supported by Jim McAllister, Friends of The Hurtwood and Cranleigh Parish Council. For more information do go online:

CAPEL CHORAL SOCIETY

Christmas approaches!

Capel Choral Society is enjoying enlivening rehearsals with its new Conductor, Anna Tabor, and already looking forward to its Christmas concert under her direction. The Concert will be held in Capel Parish Church on Monday 11th December at 7.30pm and will include carols, some well-known, others not so familiar.

Book your tickets, price £7.50, with the Choir Secretary, buy them from choir members, or on the door. The price includes mulled wine and mince pies!

The Choir's other main Christmas event is its very popular informal 'Carols & Cakes', from 2-4pm on Sunday 3rd December, also in Capel Parish Church. Sample a delicious array of cakes and choose your favourite carols to sing with the choir.

New singers are always welcome any time to join the friendly Capel Choral Society. Do consider giving choral singing a try – it gives a sense of community with fellow singers and has proven health benefits.

The Choir is particularly looking forward to its Spring term when it will be concentrating on learning wonderful music by Mozart and Vaughan Williams for the 2024 Leith Hill Music Festival on 12th April.

The Choir will also be celebrating its 120th birthday later in 2024.

Please contact the Secretary for more details about the Choir and how to join.

The Choir Secretary is Rosemary Goddard:

rosemary.goddard25@gmail.com , or telephone 01306 711259.

Rehearsals Mondays 7.45 to 9.30pm, Capel Memorial Hall.
